—Maj. Brock to-day issued an order expressing to the police force his entire satisfaction with the manner in which they performed their arduous duties since the 2d of July. The order states that all discomforts, such as long hours and absence from home, have been cheerfully borne; the demeanor of the force during the days of feverish excitement kept within bounds the feelings of the people by their attention to duty. The removal to Long Branch of the late President was quietly accomplished, and the efficiency of the police was a general remark from all who were in the city during the days of the funeral. The conduct of the police during the recoption of the foreign guests is also spoken of as highly commendable and creditable, and the Major concludes by stating that he takes pleasure in affording in this manner a slight recompense for unusual and arduous labors.
